With the state at the height of its space program, I believe that the space program is both good and bad. It is good because we have found a lot of new data that can help us. The space program also is bad in my opinion. The reason for this is I believe the moon causes the weather on the earth, and we should not mess with God's work.

When I was a child, I remember the first moon landing. It was a little bit of a disappointment. I had heard that the moon was a beautiful, peaceful place, and I had heard that the astronauts would be there for a long time. But when I saw the pictures, I saw a very different picture. I saw a very dry, very hot, and very lonely place.

SOYBEAN INCOME
The outlook for soybeans is excellent. Use of the beans is growing faster than production. We must narrow the gap between production and use so we can keep the markets we now have. This year we will need more beans than were produced in 1970.

We can do one of two things to step up total production - either increase acreage or increase yields on existing acreage. Or we could do both! The quickest way to increase total production would be to increase acreage, but the most profitable way would be to raise the average yield per acre. An increase of only two bushels per acre would be approximately equal to adding another 200,000 acres at the 1970 production level of 24 bushels per acre.

There are some ways to help increase yields per acre: Manage the soils properly. Add lime where needed - this is the surest way to boost yields on 75 percent of the soils outside the delta and on many delta soils.

Many soils will respond to fertilizer, so if needed use phosphate and potash. Use adapted varieties. Control weeds and manage wisely.

PLANT CORN AND GRAIN SORGHUM EARLY
If you are going to make high yields of corn or grain sorghum, you must plant early. Research shows that March planted corn produced 27 percent more than May planted corn. May planted grain sorghum produced 43 percent more than June planted sorghum.

Most farmers could plant corn and sorghum before cotton planting time and this would be one of the most profitable management decisions they could make.

Parents, Know The Drug Threat

The Child You Save May Be Your Own

TODAY'S SUBJECT: DRUGS AND THE LADS

No matter how much we discuss the matter of drugs and law misuse, there is still one incontrovertible fact - it is the people using drugs, excluding those obtained by prescription and used according to directions, may land in jail, and their lives are affected for years to come.

For example, possession of Marijuana for personal use is a felony under federal law. A conviction could mean a sentence of not less than two years and not more than 10, for the first offense. When a person applies for a job, he is often asked to state whether he has ever been convicted of a felony. As a punitive reply, of course, would limit greatly his chances for being hired. Conviction of felony charges also means loss of civil rights.

Many state laws are more severe in their penalties for possession of Marijuana. For example, the state of Ohio provides a maximum sentence of life in prison for selling Marijuana to people who are minors.

Many states specify Marijuana as a narcotic, but the laws do not, as of this writing. On the other hand, possession of LSD, a far more dangerous drug you will recall from our discussion in this series, is made a misdemeanor, subject to a fine and/or imprisonment in changes made in federal laws. Prior to these changes, possession of LSD for personal use had not been a federal offense at all. Today about half of our states outlaw the possession of LSD, but the laws are changing constantly and tending to put the direction of stiffer penalties.

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, says, "The distance from the state to try (the drug) to 'maintaining' (injecting Heroin) is very short." The law enforcement officers seem to feel that greater use of Marijuana, especially among youngsters, will probably lead to the use of far more dangerous drugs.

Mind-influencing drug laws continue to change in response to very important changes in drug use. Very important changes in drug laws, were passed by Congress just the last few years, in alterations in the Drug Abuse Control Amendments of 1965.

The main changes were: LSD was placed under the category and defined as "depressant or stimulant drugs" and possession for use was made a misdemeanor on the first offense. And, indicative of the trend, it is now a misdemeanor to have Barbiturates, Amphetamines or other drugs of this type in your possession unless they have been prescribed by a licensed physician and were obtained through a valid prescription from him. Offenders can be fined as much as $1,000, or jailed for up to one year - or both - for the first offense or both for subsequent offenses.

Under the new federal changes, the penalty for sale, manufacture, delivery of or other disposal of, or possession with intent to sell a depressant or stimulant drug involving counterfeit drugs of this type, has now become a fine of up to $10,000 or prison terms of up to five years - or both.

The illegal sale, delivery or other disposal of such drugs by persons over age 18 to those under age 21, now carries fines up to $15,000 or prison terms for not more than 10 years - or both! For second and later offenses, the fine goes up to $20,000 and the jail term to 15 years.

Of course, there are many instances where the drug laws, and the courts across the land are being put to the test. And, this is what we MUST do: We must put the laws for chronic offenders, the laws of the land which destroy themselves with drug misuse if they are not used, and eventually they will most likely be apprehended.

Next week will be our summary. Try to be with us on this very important series, please.

Social Security Information

If you are over age 65, and not enrolled in the medical insurance part of Medicare, this could be your last chance to do so. The exact amount of your Social Security benefit will be reduced if you are not enrolled in Medicare by July 1, 1971.

There is a medical insurance general enrollment period in effect through March 31, 1971. If you were born between October 2, 1902 and October 1, 1908, and have never signed up for this valuable insurance, this is your last chance. Folks who dropped the insurance within the last three years can also re-enroll during this period.

If you do sign up during this general enrollment, it's possible your monthly premium could be a little higher than the normal premium. The penalty could be as little as 10 percent and could go as high as 30 percent.

If you choose to plant corn this year, make every effort to get good of normal cytoplasm that is tolerant to southern corn leaf blight. It looks as if we will have up to a 90 percent supply of tolerant seed available.

SOCIAL SECURITY
Most people know when they were born, but sometimes proving it presents a problem. If you are nearing retirement age, now is the time to get records that will prove when you were born.

Each person should write to the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Jackson for his birth certificate. For those born before 1918, it is suggested that they contact the local Social Security representative to find out what kinds of records they will need to prove their date of birth.

This 23rd day of March A.D. 1971.

'My Fair Lady' Presentation Termed Brilliant Success

by Emily DeMontgoin

On both nights of its performance last weekend the audience gave a standing ovation as the curtains closed on the last act of "My Fair Lady". A combined cast of students from the Bay St. Louis and Bay Senior High School had achieved what by any standards must be termed a brilliant success, proving once again that an exciting evening at the theatre has nothing to do with the age of the actors. The magic ingredients are a good play, talent, and in the orchestra, a dedicated backstage crew, and above all an excellent director and producer. All these "My Fair Lady" had, and it set a standard of entertainment that will be hard to meet in future years.

Staged at the St. Rosemarie auditorium at St. Augustine's Seminary, the Lerner and Loewe musical was directed by Burt Barrett, chairman of production of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, and produced by Mrs. Beverly Zimmerman. Music for the delightful songs was provided by an orchestra of high school students directed by H. Davis Williams, with Mrs. Pat Hill as pianist and Brother Eduardo as assistant. Assistant to the director was Mrs. Laurie Hylt, and technical director Brother Joseph Donovan.

Based on the George Bernard Shaw play "Pygmalion", the classic comedy tells the familiar story of a Cockney flower-girl of 1912 London who entered a new world when she learned good diction and good manners. It's musical version not only preserves the Shavian plot but fairly bubbles over with delectable wit and such unforgettable songs as "I Could Have Danced All Night" and "Get Me To The Church On Time". Starring in the role of Eliza Doolittle was Lynn Phillips, who completely enchanted the audience with her performance, showing a remarkable ability to sweep them along with her in her progress from the gutters of Covent Garden to the ballroom of Buckingham Palace. In fact, at the climax of her lessons in phonics, when she was able at long last to pronounce "the rain in Spain", a great sigh of relief burst from the audience, and her own obvious bliss was reflected on every face. Her transition toward a place in high society provided opportunities for her to register almost every possible emotion, and this she did so skillfully that the audience seemed to participate in her story rather than merely to watch it happen.

Co-starred with Miss Phillips was Pierre Leger in the equally demanding role of Henry Higgins, the expert on English diction, who determined to transform Eliza within six weeks into a perfect personification of a great lady that she could be presented successfully at the Court of St. James. Leger, who gave a memorable performance last year in the difficult role of Bill Sykes in "Oliver", scored an even more impressive triumph as Professor Higgins. His interpretation of the irascible bachelor who without realizing it falls in love with his pupil was valid and delightful, and his poise and control were worthy of a much more mature actor. Both Leger and Miss Phillips sang well, spoke "English" English extremely convincingly, and amply deserve all the praise they're getting from those who saw the show.

The principal supporting role of Colonel Pickering, ally of Higgins in the transformation of Eliza, was played by David Cernal, who turned what might have been simply a good straight part into a consistently excellent performance that in one instance drew an unexpected burst of applause. Cernal to a gifted young actor with a particularly good speaking voice and stage presence. His portrayal of Colonel Pickering asked a tone of stability to the play, and his shocked repetitions of "Well, I'm ashamed!" provided one of the most hilarious moments of the entire evening.

Other outstanding supporting roles were played by Buddy Zimmerman, who danced, sang, and rolled Cockney English off his tongue in a most remarkable fashion as Eliza's father, Alfred P. Doolittle; Colette Zimmerman, a convincingly prim and disapproving Mrs. Pearce, housekeeper for Professor Higgins; and Kenny Klempeter, who gave a touching portrayal of the romantic young Freddy, particularly when he sang "On The Street Where You Live". Smaller parts were well played by the large cast and chorus, especially notable among whom were Ellen Howe in the role of the elegant Mrs. Higgins, and Melissa Lagarde as Mrs. Eynsford-Hill, another member of London Society. The quality of a good play, as every theatre-goer knows, depends not only on the performance of its stars but on the timing, actions, and even facial expressions of its minor characters, and the entire cast and chorus of "My Fair Lady" deserves sincere congratulations.

Orchids must go also to the unbelievably efficient stage crew, who shifted sets and managed lighting and sound effects with professional results; to Mrs. Burt Barrett for the effective make-up; and to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chapman, who designed the costumes.

Co-starred with Miss Phillips was Pierre Leger in the equally demanding role of Henry Higgins, the expert on English diction, who determined to transform Eliza within six weeks into a perfect personification of a great lady that she could be presented successfully at the Court of St. James. Leger, who gave a memorable performance last year in the difficult role of Bill Sykes in "Oliver", scored an even more impressive triumph as Professor Higgins. His interpretation of the irascible bachelor who without realizing it falls in love with his pupil was valid and delightful, and his poise and control were worthy of a much more mature actor. Both Leger and Miss Phillips sang well, spoke "English" English extremely convincingly, and amply deserve all the praise they're getting from those who saw the show.

Roscoe Donlon Making Statement

James Roscoe, a Lumberton resident and a member of the Hancock County Planning Commission, in discussing the meeting of the Hancock County Construction Council which met last week in the Hancock North Central School denied making a statement to the effect that the Board of Supervisors have gone through thousands of dollars and that there were millions made every year.

Roscoe was credited in the columns of the Sea Coast Echo as making this statement. Roscoe said: "The statement was made at the meeting, and the wording of the quote is correct, however, I certainly was not the person who made the remark." Roscoe did affirm that he felt the building code adoption was to the best interest of the county and that the provisions of the code were for the mutual protection of all citizens in the county.
